

Have you or a family member / loved one been hospitalised in intensive care with Covid-19?

Would you like the chance to discuss your experiences of leaving hospital and the follow-up care that you or your loved one received?

The University of Manchester

We would like to hear your views!

The University of Manchester are currently researching what care and support people and family members / loved ones receive when they are discharged from intensive care following treatment for Covid-19.

We would like to hear about your experiences and what your needs / priorities were in relation to the care and support you got from health and social care professionals. What support would have been most helpful and what support do you still need?

It is hoped the study will give you a chance to share your experiences, voice your opinions and hopefully make a positive change for others.

We would like you to join our focus group and/or be interviewed. The focus groups will be with other people who were hospitalised in intensive care with Covid-19, their loved ones, and selected health and social care professionals to share ideas and experiences. If you are happy to, we will also invite you to have a one-to-one interview with a researcher to discuss your experiences further. You are free to choose whether you would like to take part in the focus group, the interview, or both.

If you are interested in taking part, or would like more information about the study, please contact Elizabeth Dalgarno at: Elizabeth.dalgarno@manchester.ac.uk
